Services

Mike Cassidy is the Boeing Finance Shared Service Leader for the Financial Analysis Center of Expertise (COE). He is responsible for leading Boeing's Cost Management initiatives, while ensuring compliance with internal controls and contractual obligations.

Prior to this assignment, Mike was the Chief Financial Officer of the Vertical Lift division under Boeing Defense, Space & Security (BDS), headquartered in Philadelphia, PA. In this role, he oversaw all financial activities, including operations, planning, estimating, pricing, and contracts, across three key platforms, Cargo, Tiltrotor, and Attack over two key BDS sites, Philadelphia, PA and Mesa, AZ.

Before this role, Mike was the Chief Financial Officer for the V-22 Tiltrotor program. Prior to his time in Vertical Lift, he served as the Senior Manager of Financial Planning and Analysis for BDS, where he also supported Investor Relations for the defense sector. Mike has also held senior finance roles within the Network & Space Systems business unit and the Electronic and Information Systems division.

Mike acts as the executive champion for the Philadelphia/Potomac regional talent management team, leading initiatives focused on employee development, training, and engagement.

Throughout his 20+ year career at Boeing, Mike has held various leadership positions across BDS, gaining extensive experience in financial planning, operations, scheduling, and cost management at both the Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. locations. He began his journey with Boeing in 2003 as a finance analyst.

Mike has a bachelor's degree in Economics from Penn State University and a Masters of Business Administration from Wilmington University.
